NAMUR AND FIVE FORTS FALL BEFORE GERMANS

Kaiser's Troops Gain Decisive Victory and Swing Southward to Intrenchments

BERLIN, Aug. 25 (By wireless to the Associated Press by way of Nauen, Germany, and Sayville, L. I.)—An official announcement made public here today says that the city of Namur and five of its forts have been captured by the Germans. Bombardment of the four other forts continues and their fall seems imminent.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Beyond the bare statement that Namur has fallen, the official war information bureau has issued nothing on the subject. It is not yet known officially here whether the fall refers to the town or to the forts, or to both.

French Version of Battle.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—News of the victory of the German army at Namur and other points in Belgium, where it had met the allied forces, reached Washington through various official channels today.

Julius Janssen, the French ambassador, who paid his visit to the state department after his return from Belgium, thus summarized the fighting in Belgium based on his dispatches: "We did not succeed—that is true—but many of the reports as to our losses are exaggerated. Two of our divisions suffered, but the Germans suffered also, especially the Prussian guard. Our movement was an effective one. In view of possible failure, we chose a certain line of defense and on that line of defense we now stand. It was an offensive tactic which failed, but we knew it might fail and provided our line of occupation. Our army is practically intact."

Other Ambassadors Call.
The German embassy made public a dispatch said to have been received by wireless via Sayville, L. I., saying the greater part of the Belgian-French

MOON DANCE WILL RE-LEASED TOMORROW

Santa Clara Will Compete
With Pageants on Waxed Street; Plans Complete

The historic "moon" dance will be one of the features of the mass ball tomorrow night, and chief Juan Cruz of the Santa Clara Indians, now located at the cliff dwelling in Montezuma, will bring to the people to give an exhibition of real Indian dances before the assembly at the ball. Squares and paces will be in evidence, and will take part in the fun. Last summer the Santa Clara Indians competed with the Ute tribe in dancing and won the grand prize at the ball. The ball masque is an outgrowth of the Shan Kite and the Indians are the only reminders of the mysterious gatherings of former years in the Garden of the Gods.

The tribal dances will be in strong contrast to the modern versions of the dances as represented by Miss Connie Adams and Paul Ayrault of Denver who will show the intricacies of the Maxine and tango, castles walk and hesitation for the benefit of the spectators. The dances of Indian and modern will take place between the numbers of the regular program.

Seats Selling Rapidly.
We don't care about the location of the boxes, here's your money, we want to see the ball. That is what Chairman Ralph Giddings of the ball committee was greeted with yesterday when a party of visiting ladies asked for a box and may be taken as the general attitude of the citizens and tourists in Colorado Springs.

They all want to see the ball. The seats are going with a rush and the boxes are in great demand. If people are wise they will follow the advice that Chairman Giddings gave out yesterday. "Buy your boxes today, for they will be all gone by tomorrow." Persons holding tickets for general admission will be admitted at 6:45 o'clock and the early arrivals will get the house seats.

Boxes will be in order from 8 o'clock to 10:30 o'clock and no one will be allowed to dance at the big ball unless disguised. This has been a rule in the past and will be strictly enforced by the committee. Costumes are desirable, but not necessary, and the committee hopes to have a large number of the dancers in full dress regalia. Attractive prizes will be awarded for the most comical, best, most pretty, etc. They will be given out at 10:30 o'clock.

Will Clear Streets.
Commissioner D. G. Johnson is planning to have nearly the entire police force on duty and is complying with the Chamber of Commerce in the plan to make the main ball the best regulated one ever held here. No autos will be allowed on Pike's Peak avenue and Tenth street during the evening.

There will be an important meeting of the ushers and floor committee this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce to arrange final details. Chairs for the boxes are being weathered from all over the city and people are beginning to think of costumes and confetti. No concessions have been allowed by the Chamber of Commerce.

BRITISH PREPARED FOR THE WORST; EXPECT LONG WAR

Public Awaits Details of Great Battle Raging on Continent

LONDON, Aug. 26 (Wednesday).—Lord Kitchener, secretary of state for war, making his first speech at a private meeting in the house of lords yesterday, prepared the British public for the possibility of a prolonged war, which would impose a considerable strain upon the nation.

It is understood that four-fifths of the 2,000 British casualties were incurred during the retreat of the British column. No list of the casualties has been published, and public suspense is very great. Anxiety, however, is tempered by the knowledge that the British have given a good account of themselves.

Fate of Namur Unknown.
The question of what has happened at Namur has not yet been clearly defined. The German report alleged that the town and five forts have fallen, but in Paris it is denied that the forts have been taken.

According to the British official news bureau, there has been a further general engagement in the great battle.

The French war office announces that the Germans have assumed the offensive in the north against the new position taken up by the allies. Another German attack on Malines has been repulsed and German cavalry has penetrated as far as the Tourcoing-Roubaix district near Lille. This is regarded as indicating an intention on the part of the Germans to attempt a wide turning movement against the French left.

French Right Falls Back.
The French extreme right has fallen back to a position near Limeville, where it rests on the great fortified position of Belfort and Epinal.

The public has still to wait for any important details of the recent battle, but according to the story published in the Daily Telegraph, two British army corps were opposed by two German corps and a cavalry division for 36 hours.

Earl Kitchener, secretary of war, announced that 100,000 men asked for in the first instance have joined the colors and declares that the reinforcements to the British army will surely and steadily increase until there will be a British army in the field which in numbers will not be less than in quality and not be unworthy of the power and responsibility of the British Empire.

Reports from The Hague say the Germans, who have been massed in large numbers along the Dutch frontier, have disappeared, and that the mobilization of the Dutch army has ceased.

Muelhausen again has been evacuated by the French.

BALKANS MAY ENTER GREAT EUROPEAN WAR

Attitude of Turkey Now Is Considered Menacing
by Powers

AMERICANS THREATENED

Italy Watching Turks and Greece Has Her Army
Ready to Strike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—An acute situation has arisen in the Balkan states over the possible entry of Turkey into the European war, according to official advice to the American government from various sources.

Turkey has not yet given Great Britain, France and Russia a satisfactory explanation of the entry into the Balkan states of the German cruisers (Goeben and Breslau). When it was first reported that Turkey had purchased these vessels, Great Britain, France and Russia demanded that the crews of the two ships be repatriated immediately. Today's dispatches revealed that German crews were still aboard the cruisers.

May Pull Italy Into War.
Many Washington diplomats familiar with the situation consider it practically certain that should Turkey side with Germany and Austria, Italy would abandon her position of neutrality and join Great Britain, France, Russia and Serbia, which count also upon the assistance of Bulgaria and Greece.

Greece is under martial law with her army mobilized along the frontier watching Turkey's movements. The troops of the Ottoman empire are quietly mobilizing without public order to that effect. Italy's order for mobilization on August 27 is believed to be due to some extent to Turkey's military activity.

The United States is watching the situation in Turkey particularly because of the presence there of hundreds of American missionaries. Ambassador Morgenthau has been making long reports on the situation and for a time, a week ago, the situation seemed alarming.

Threatening Americans.
The governor of one of the Turkish provinces had threatened massacre of Americans if Turkey and England went to war. Mr. Morgenthau immediately discussed the subject with the Turkish foreign office and received assurances that if any subordinate officials had made such threats they would be censured and that Americans would be accorded respect and courtesy in any eventuality.

For a time the Washington government had under consideration a suggestion from Ambassador Morgenthau that a warship be sent to Turkey for salutary effect, but on the receipt of reassuring advice from him the idea was abandoned and officials here now declare there is no cause for alarm.

The cruiser North Carolina and Tennessee, now in European waters on a mission of relief, would be available in case of emergency.

The cruiser North Carolina probably will visit Turkey and southern Europe with gold for Americans.

WHO TRAVELED GREATEST DISTANCE TO SPRINGS?

Cup Goes to Winner; Auto Competition
Tomorrow Expected to Bring Out
Long List of Entries

What is the greatest mileage traveled by any car in making the trip from its starting point to Colorado Springs and the Pike's Peak region?

To settle this interesting question, the Chamber of Commerce has offered another trophy cup for the big parade tomorrow afternoon. It is reported that there is a car now in town which has made the trip overland from Florida; also a Honolulu pennant has been seen about the streets. This competition is expected to bring forth entries from many of the states which because of distance cannot successfully compete for the cups for the largest state and city representation.

All day yesterday visiting motorists called at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce and at the information booth to learn the details of parade plans and to enter their machines. Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Texas, Oklahoma and other states are represented in the first entries. Each of the 12 marshals is busy working up interest in his division, and the various state societies are all actively bringing together their cars with the avowed purpose of winning the cups and giving their home states and towns advertising through the moving pictures.

No Red Tape Attached.
There is no red tape about the affair. All that any visiting or local car owner has to do is to have his car in line at the proper place, as indicated in the following program for formation of divisions at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Pennants of the states and cities represented are the only decorations.

KITCHENER CALLS ON WHOLE OF BRITISH NATION TO BE READY TO TAKE FIELD AGAINST GERMANS

Tells Parliament That the Struggle Will Tax
Faith and Resources of Empire, but That in the End England Will Triumph

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Lord Kitchener made his first speech as minister of war in the house of lords today. He told his hearers that this war undoubtedly would strain the forces of the empire and entail big sacrifices. He laid emphasis on the fact that his position in the cabinet involved adherence to neither party. He said: "The terms on which I am serving are the same as those under which some of the finest portions of our manhood, now so willingly stepping forward to join the colors, are enlisting. That is to say, my term of office is for the duration of the war, or for three years if the war should last that long. It has been asked why this period has been limited. It is because, if this disastrous war be prolonged, and no one can foresee for a certainty its duration, that after three years of war, others will take our places and see this matter through."

Reviews Situation.
There will be serious conflicts which undoubtedly will strain the forces of our empire and undoubtedly considerable sacrifice to our people will be entailed. These will be willingly borne for our honor and for the preservation of our position in the world, and they will be shared by our dominions, which are now sending contingents and giving assistance of every kind to the mother country.

"Our expeditionary force has taken the field on the French northwest frontier and advanced in the neighborhood of Mons in Belgium."

"Our troops also already have been for 36 hours in contact with the superior forces of the German invader. During that time they maintained the best traditions of the British soldier and behaved with the utmost gallantry. The movements they have been called upon to execute were those which demanded the greatest steadiness of a soldier and skill of the commanders."

Sends Cheer to Troops.
Lord Kitchener alluded to Premier Asquith's statement in the house of commons that the British troops had been able to maintain their positions in the face of fierce German attacks. He said he had sent a telegram to Sir John French, the commander of the British expeditionary force, reading as follows: "Congratulations the troops on their splendid work. We are proud of them."

Continuing, Lord Kitchener pointed out that the fighting in Europe would

BELGRADE NOW IN RUINS FROM AUSTRIAN SHELLS

LONDON, Aug. 26 (Wednesday).—A dispatch to the Reuters Telegram company from Nish, Serbia, says: "The latest information received here is that the bombardment of Belgrade is still most severe. Shells of large caliber are doing immense damage. Nearly one building remains undamaged. The palace has been partly burned down. Another large building in the city has been struck by 35 shells."

ALLIED ARMIES DRIVEN BACK; FATE OF FRANCE NOW IN THE BALANCE

Future of Republic Depends on Ability of French and British to Hold
Road to Paris

GERMAN ARMY ASSUMES OFFENSIVE AND NOW IS NEAR FRENCH BORDER

Combined Attack of French Armies in Lorraine Directed at Main German Column
Left in That Field; Both Sides Suffer
Heavy Losses in the Fighting

ROME, Aug. 26 (Wednesday).—Austria has declared war on Japan, according to a dispatch received from Vienna early today.

PARIS, Aug. 26 (Wednesday).—General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French army, has withdrawn his forces from territory recently occupied and is massing them, along with their British allies, in a strong line between Maubeuge, on the north, and Donon, on the south, a distance of about 200 miles.

The allies, having abandoned the offensive, will, according to official announcement, assume a purely defensive attitude, in the hope of checking the advance of the vast masses of German troops endeavoring to break through the line.

A combined French and British force is holding the front near Givet, along the River Meuse, about 30 miles below Namur, while French troops command the road out of the great forest of Ardennes.

Upon the ability of the allies to hold the Germans, the French war office admits, depends the fate of France.

FRENCH WAR OFFICE SAYS SITUATION IS GRAVE

The war office has issued the following official announcement: "The commander-in-chief, realizing all available forces on the Meuse, has ordered the progressive abandonment of occupied territory. Muelhausen has again been evacuated."

A battle is in progress between Maubeuge, department of Nord, and Donon in central France. On it hangs the fate of France.

"Operations in Alsace along the Rhine would take away troops upon which might depend victory. It is necessary that they all withdraw from Alsace temporarily, in order to assure its final deliverance. It is a matter of hard necessity."

ALLIES HOLDING BACK

GERMANS IN NEW STAND

West of the Meuse, as a result of orders issued on Sunday by the commander-in-chief, the troops which are to remain on the covering line, to take up the defensive, are massed as follows:

"The French and British troops occupy a front passing near Givet which they gained by hard fighting. They are holding their adversaries and sharply checking their attacks."

"Last of the Meuse, in troops have regained their original positions commanding the roads out of the great forest of Ardennes."

"To the right, we assumed the offensive, driving back the enemy by a vigorous onslaught, but General Joffre stopped pursuit, so as to reestablish his front along the line decided upon on Sunday. In this attack our troops showed admirable dash. The Sixth corps notably inflicted serious losses on the enemy close to Vitton."

COMBINED ATTACK ON IN LORRAINE

"In Lorraine, the two armies have begun a combined attack, one starting from Grand Couronné de Nancy, and the other from south of Lunéville. The

DEADLY FIRE OF BRITISH TROOPS MOWS DOWN THE GERMANS BY THOUSANDS

LONDON, Aug. 26 (Wednesday).—The correspondent of the Central News at Paris sends the following:

"I have been talking with British officers from the front, who tell of the wonderful coolness and during of the British soldiers in the fighting around Mons."

"The shooting of the British infantry on the firing line was wonderful. Every time a German head showed above a trench there came a steady withering rifle fire from the khaki-clad men, lying in extended formation along the wide battle front. Their firing was not the usual firing of nervous men shooting without aiming, rather a cool and steady firing of marksmen."

"The task of the Russian army is to invade and occupy the country up to the Carpathians."

Show Great Coolness.

"When quick action was necessary, the men showed no nervousness, no excitement. They showed cool, methodical efficiency, for which the British army is noted."

"If the British lost, Saville, the Germans must have lost terribly. One of the German prisoners said: 'We had never expected anything like it. It was staggering.'"

"The British troops went to their positions silently, but rapidly. There was no shouting, because it was forbidden, but as the men deployed in the Valuable suggestions for the effective advertising of Colorado Springs and the Pikes Peak region as the "Finest All-the-Year-Round Playground and Health Resort" were given yesterday by T. T. Maxey, advertising agent of the Burlington route at a conference with the committee of the Chamber of Commerce and other interested parties. Mr. Maxey presented many new and original ideas to bring to the attention of interested people and manifold advantages of this locality as a superior place of residence. In this work every member of the Chamber of Commerce and every resident of this region can cooperate, he said. The best advertisement is the satisfied customer and the genuine and united cooperation of all the people of this community all working together to please and make friends of the thousands of people who come every year to your city will effect wonders in the greater development as an all-the-year-round resort and place of residence.

War Costing $70,000,000 Day; Will Take Half a Century for Europe to Recuperate Losses

Teles Says Estimates of Other Statisticians Too Low; Present Conflict Greatest Drain on Human Life and Property Ever Known to History

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Taking issue with other statisticians whose moderate estimates Nikola Tesla, the famous inventor of electrical contrivances, said today the total cost of the general war now going on probably will not be less than $70,000,000,000.

The present war may easily involve 100,000,000 combatants, said Mr. Tesla. I have seen an estimate of a total cost of $80,000,000,000 a day. This is too low. The number of these disabled through wounds and disease was recently placed at 300,000. This, also, is too moderate. It would be less than 2 1/2 per cent and it must be remembered that in the most recent great war preceding this the Balkan struggle, the casualties were 10 times greater or 25 per cent.

Canada, he said, it is reported Belgium lost $300,000,000 in two weeks' fighting, while there were no large cities in the path of the Germans.

Don't Consider Whole Cost. The difficulty with most statisticians of war losses is that they simply consider the cost of military operations. This is a small fraction of the whole waste.

To measure the losses due to war merely by statistical standards is absurd. An example will make this clear. The strain imposed upon a country in a state of siege is compelling of strict economy. The savings thus effected go to offset the drain of war. Theoretically, it is impossible for a nation, by living on bread and water and curtailing all expenses to accumulate enough for not only meeting the cost of military operations but leaving surplus behind. From the point of view of the statistician, such a war, far from being costly, would be the very means of creating wealth.

It is equally unreasonable to define the waste of an international conflict as the excess of waste in time of war over that in time of peace. A quantity may be deducted from a quantity and the difference will be a—b, but the supposition however that the quantities are composed of identical units.

War Changes Peoples. Now, while the same human beings are concerned both in peace and war, these two states bear no resemblance to each other in one respect and to each sense, a feeling of safety and desire to do justice prevail, in the other, these beneficial influences are weakened, and folly, fear and greed assert themselves. War changes individuals as well as values.

A true appreciation of the enormous losses which are likely to result from this unprecedented calamity can only be gained by taking into account its effect on all phases and conditions of individual and national existence. Stated in the order of their magnitude, these losses may be enumerated as follows:

First—Temporary or permanent shrinkage of wealth of nations is distinct from negotiable securities. The total wealth of the countries involved is about $300,000,000,000. Assume only a moderate production of 10 per cent and suppose further that the war should last from six to seven months, or about 200 days, as forecast by experts, then the daily shrinkage will amount to $150,000,000. To be sure, such depreciation of physical possessions is mostly due to ignorance and carelessness of the people for the properties are there and some are indestructible. But just the same the warring nations will lose credit and purchasing power and will be subjected for an indefinite period to sufferings and privations all of which must be interpreted as loss of so much money.

Second—All losses individual and collective, caused by interference of war with the wheelwork of manufacture, industry and commerce. These reflect particularly on the market value of negotiable securities, which constitute from 20 to 30 per cent of the whole national wealth. For obvious reasons they are apt to be very large, and the shrinkage may easily amount for the above period to $100,000,000 a day.

Third—Specific losses due to destruction of existing private and public property, including implements and materials of war. These will greatly depend on the circumstances, but may be placed at from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 a day.

Fourth—Loss of life and disabling through wounds and disease. Judging from the data of the Balkan war the casualties cannot be taken at less than 10 per cent, making the total of $300,000. Assuming an average of $2,500 per individual, this waste will be nearly $14,000,000 a day.

Fifth—Daily cost of military operations, which may amount from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.

According to this rough estimate the total waste cannot be much less than $70,000,000,000 making almost 25 per cent of the total wealth of the best countries in the world. The best circumstances it will take from 40 to 50 years to repair the material damage and to speak of the injury to the peace and retardation of social progress in all directions.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR WHO TRAVELED GREATEST DISTANCE TO SPRINGS? TO INVESTIGATE U. S. CENSORSHIP SCHEME

Denies Cruelties to Belgians and Says Germany Not to Blame for War

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Count Johann von Bernstorff, the German ambassador who arrived here yesterday from Europe, said today he planned to remain in New York until Thursday. He declared that he wants first hand information concerning the censorship the United States government is exercising over the German owned wireless station at Sayville, N. Y., and its refusal to grant the one at Tuckerton, N. J., a license.

He pointed out that with the cables to England uncensored, the representatives of Great Britain in this country were at liberty to forward to their government information concerning the movements of German warships or any other information that might be deemed advisable. Count von Bernstorff said he had formed no opinion yet upon the subject and wanted to be fully informed before even contemplating taking up the censorship question with the state department at Washington.

Discusses Belgian Charges. The attention of the ambassador was called to the published statements emanating from Belgian sources that German soldiers had been using expanding bullets.

I refrained from discussing the so-called cases of cruelty upon my arrival yesterday, he said, for the reason that I did not care to be in an argument in creating any ill feeling. Since, however, "The Belgian government has seen fit to have published other accusations, I cannot help saying that official reports from Liege to Berlin informed that the citizens there had fired at German troops from windows and had shot at doctors and nurses carrying Red cross army bands and under the Red cross flag. Furthermore, the citizens mutilated wounded German soldiers."

800,000 Men in the East. Count von Bernstorff said he believed there were about 12 German army corps and eight Austrian army corps along the Austria river. German first line of defense against Russia. There are about 800,000 men in these corps.

The ambassador said he wished to reiterate for the benefit of the people of the United States that Germany was not to blame for going to war. "As a matter of fact," said the German ambassador, "Germany would have been the first to go to war if the Russian government had not mobilized her army."

"What right has Russia to stand up for Serbia?" The question she has done so, is that she seeks the destruction of Austria. Every man in Germany feels the same as I do about this matter. The attitude of the Socialists proves this and the truth is bound to come out in time. The reason the English went to such lengths to cut the cables between America and Germany was that they did not want the truth to be known."

MIDLAND BAND GUESTS AT SMOKER AT CLUB The members of the Midland band were guests of the management of the band at a lunch and smoker in the afternoon of the Pike home last night.

A luncheon was served and impromptu speeches were made by each member of the band. The affair closed with an informal musical.

French Newspaper Man Praises the English Soldiers

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(Wednesday).—Telegraphing from Paris, the correspondent of the Reuter Telegram company says:

A special envoy of the Temps, who has returned from the front, had an opportunity of seeing the English troops. He was much struck by the excellent commissary arrangements. Huge caissons of sugar, tea, tinned meats and vegetables and enormous pots of jam had been provided for the men. Everything had been done, he said, in the minutest detail to insure their well-being.

The correspondent remarks: "We have in the British force as a strong disciplined supporting army equal to the best of our troops. I would like to see the French copy the British in the severe treatment of spies."

ALLIED ARMIES DRIVEN BACK; FATE OF FRANCE NOW IN THE BALANCE

graph describes the operations of the German forces.

"The German advance," it says, "was like a great river bursting its banks. As soon as the Belgians retired to the entrenched camp at Antwerp, the German horde swept over the country, without check, west toward Ghent and south toward Mons.

The Germans are committed to a great turning movement. They are striving to hold the French along the Meuse between Namur and Dinant, while the armies to the west of that river are marching southward along a front many miles wide.

One army threatens Mons with the object of penetrating the French frontier and descending on Maubeuge and Valenciennes, another army is advancing along the line extending from Tournai capital of the Belgian department of Hainaut to Courtrai, which covers the city of Lille.

I came south in the hope of seeing fighting at Charleroi. At Lessines the local authorities were disarming all civilians, so that the approaching Germans would have no excuse for violence. All around were refugees hurrying to escape the Germans. All wore their best clothes, a sure sign of flight. Arriving at Mons I found the city in a highly nervous state. The Germans were near, the cry everywhere. The streets, usually so animated, were empty and silent.

CHARLEROI TAKEN AND RETAKEN FIVE TIMES

PARIS, Aug. 25.—Charleroi was taken and retaken five times in the fighting between the French and Germans Saturday Sunday and Monday, according to one of the railway staff at Flanders on the frontier between France and Belgium, who saw some of the battle until he was ordered away.

"We at Flanders," said this man, "began to hear the artillery Saturday evening. All night we listened to the guns and Sunday morning the wounded began to pass Maubeuge, 12 miles south of Mons. Shells commenced to fall near the railway station about noon, and we began to see the English artillery taking positions and serving their pieces with great precision.

"Bicycle couriers passed by from time to time and called out the news to us. Presently we learned that Charleroi had been taken and retaken repeatedly. The Germans fired the town when they were departing.

"As our train was about to leave the station seven Germans platted into town. The people thinking them English began welcoming them, when a patrol of French chasseurs galloped up and captured the Prussians."

BERLIN COMMUNICATES WITH OUTSIDE WORLD BY MARCONI WIRELESS

BY MARCONI WIRELESS

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The following dispatches have been received from Berlin by Marconi wireless.

It is officially announced that the German-Austro-Hungarian consuls in London were ordered to leave by the French government August 19.

The Italian steamer Ancona, from New York for Italian ports, was held up near Gibraltar. About 70 German conscripts on board were taken at Gibraltar as prisoners of war.

Fourteen officers and 170 of the crew of the Austrian cruiser Zenta, said to have been sunk August 16 in an engagement with the French fleet, have sought refuge in Montenegro territory. The press commenting on this engagement says that the men on the Zenta, inspired by the spirit of Tegethoff (a noted Austrian) ventured in the open sea to engage in battle a force probably 50 times stronger with the object of doing as much damage to the enemy as possible, even though they knew that certain destruction awaited them.

Russian prisoners including 30 officers and 300 dragoons with many guns have been brought to Lemberg Galicia. The Russian general Wladimir Ivanoff has died from injuries received in an engagement.

"The German emperor has sent the following telegram to the king of Wurttemberg:

"With God's gracious assistance the Duke of Albrecht and his splendid army have gained a glorious victory. You will join me in thanking the Almighty. I have bestowed on the duke of Albrecht the Iron Cross of the first and second class."

The emperor has granted 8000 marks towards the municipal fund for the relief of the unemployed in Berlin.

Twelve guns with their gun carriages and ammunition cars captured by the Bavarian troops from the French have been brought to Karlsruhe and placed in the palace yards.

JAPAN WILL RESTORE KIAO-CHOW TO CHINA

Also Will Do All in Power to Retain Friendship of United States

TOKIO, Aug. 25.—The Tokio Kossu Tsushin, an international news agency, says it is in a position to state "on highest authority" that it is the settled policy of Japan, approved by the emperor, privy council, the cabinet and leading business men, that Japan, under any future conditions, will act strictly in accordance with the terms of the alliance with England and the treaties and agreements with America and her pledge to China.

"Japan will restore Kiao-Chow," continues the statement, "will preserve the territorial integrity of China, and the terms of the ultimatum to Germany will be adhered to, whether Tsing-Tau is taken by force or otherwise. Japan realizes that in these suddenly-faced responsibilities she must act with the utmost circumspection, especially in view of the campaign of misapprehension and the worldwide prevailing misunderstanding of her real motives, ambitions and policies. The present is perhaps the most critical moment in her history, and Japan must for once and for all eradicate the suspicion of her motives prevailing in America and fostered by years of anti-Japanese propaganda.

Seeks Friendship of U. S.

"The partition of China or the violation of Chinese integrity in any way is the last thing Japan plans. She most desires the friendship and confidence of the United States and the entire eradication of all roots of suspicion."

The statement of the Kossu Tsushin continues that it has authority for the assertion "that it is to Japan's interest to cooperate with Great Britain and America in China, and that it would be fatal to oppose or attempt to block the commerce of either country. With friendly cooperation, Japan's trade is certain to immensely increase, while Great Britain and America are alone able to supply the vast products and to cooperate in the great undertakings and developments in the far east from which China will equally benefit. There is no room to doubt that it is the settled policy of Japan to avoid even a suspicion of their violation of Chinese integrity or to extend her operations beyond the present necessary sphere in order to secure the peace from which all alike will reap profit."

DEADLY FIRE OF BRITISH MOWS DOWN GERMANS

tranches there were various salutes of honor in the dialects of the various English, Irish and Scotch counties.

All Types Are There.

"The cockney was there with quips about Uncle Bill, and every Irishman who went into the firing line wished he had money to buy a little Irish horse so that he might take a slap at the Germans."

As for the cavalry, the officers declare their charges against the Germans were superb. They charged as Berserkers might have done. They gave the Germans the surprise of their lives.

"With the close of the first series of combats between the British and Germans, the scene of interest shifted to the Paris railway station, where the injured British soldiers were being taken. The handling of the wounded was all that could be desired, everything was perfectly organized, and without theatrical display.

Americans Cheer Britons.

The station at the time was crowded with Americans who were on their way to England from Switzerland. The Americans joined with the French in cheering for the first arrivals of British wounded from the scene of the fighting. While the crowd waited, train after train rolled by carrying fresh British troops to the front.

"I witnessed a notable scene on the road between Boulogne and Paris. The English cardinals Cardinal Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, and Cardinal Gasquet, abbot president of the English Benedictines, were on their way from London to the conclave at Rome. Their train stopped on a siding and by a curious chance a regiment of British troops, which included in its ranks a large body of Irish Catholics, was drawn up alongside for a moment. The cardinals leaned out of the windows and gave the soldiers their blessing, which the Catholic soldiers knelt to receive."

VILLA HAS NO DESIRE TO BECOME PRESIDENT

Insists, However, That Carranza Eliminate Self in Elections to Be Held Soon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—While President Wilson and administration officials are confident that the differences between Carranza and Villa will be settled without recourse to arms, details of the position assumed by General Villa as reaching here in official reports, show that the fighting general plans to insist on the elimination of Carranza from permanent power in the Mexican administration.

General Carranza has sent one of his three division commanders, General Obregon, to Sonora, not only to smooth out the local troubles in that state but to confer with General Villa in an endeavor to bring Villa into complete harmony with the Carranza government. General Villa's position, as outlined in the Washington gov-

CROP SHORTAGE IS CAUSE SUGAR BOOST

Refiners Deny Conspiracy to Take Advantage of the War Situation

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Serious loss in the European crop of sugar, directly due to the war, is responsible for the rise in sugar in this country, according to the American Sugar Refining company, which today issued a statement telling why it had advanced the price of sugar here.

The American company, according to the statement, sells less than 40 per cent of the refined sugar used in the United States. The company says it does not own an acre of sugar land or produce a pound of raw sugar, but is entirely dependent upon growers of cane sugar in Porto Rico, Cuba, Hawaii, the Philippines, Java and other countries. The European countries, including those now at war, the statement continues, produced last year more than 8,000,000 tons or about 45 per cent of the world's supply.

A tremendous loss to the European crop has been caused by the war, the statement asserts, resulting in radical advance in the price of sugar in Europe and an unprecedented demand for raw sugar at its source of production. This has resulted in increased prices of raw sugar which the company has been obliged to pay, the statement says, and to meet this advance in the price of raw sugar the company has been compelled to advance the price of refined sugar.

Villa's Proposals.

First—A conference of military chiefs to be called as agreed to at the meeting at Torreon when the first Villa-Carranza break was adjusted, one delegate representing 1,000 men in the army, this convention would designate a man to be provisional president, who, under the constitution, could not succeed himself, but would call a general election.

Second—Carranza can be designated as provisional president by the proposed convention, but he must agree to abide by the constitution and not succeed himself.

General Villa would have no objection, it is learned, if Carranza retired as first chief or provisional president and became a candidate in the general elections, but Villa's followers say that they could defeat Carranza at the polls.

General Villa, it is understood from reliable sources, has let it be known that he does not wish to enter the presidential race, preferring that no military man hereafter hold the reins of power in Mexico. It is suggested in many quarters that Villa intends to propose as a candidate for the presidency Emilio Madero, a brother of the late president.

Over 70 battalions have, with fine courage, already volunteered for service abroad. When they are trained and organized in larger formations, they will be able to take their places in the line.

"The empire with which we are at war has called to the colors almost its entire male population. The principle we on our part shall observe is that, while the maximum force undergoes constant diminution, the reinforcement we have prepared will steadily and increasingly flow out until we have an army in the field which, in numbers, will not be less than in quality and not be unworthy of the power and responsibility of the British empire.

CARRANZA SAYS VERA

GRUZ IS CLOSED PORT

Due to Occupation by the Americans; Rebel Activities Noted in the South

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25.—Provisional President Carranza has notified the authorities of the ports other than Vera Cruz, that Vera Cruz is closed as a port on account of the occupation of the city and harbor by the American forces.

Reports received from the south are not reassuring concerning the exact whereabouts of General Teller who, with 5,000 men of the old army, is said to have revolted at Salina Cruz and marched northward.

A train on the Vera Cruz and Isthmus railroad was fired on today by a party whose identity is unknown and a freight train on the Mexican line, running ahead of the train on which Sir Lionel Carden, the British minister, was proceeding to Vera Cruz, also was attacked. Two men were killed on board this train. Whether Constitutionalists or federales made the attack is unknown here.

Euliano Zapata, the rebel leader, has promised to A. a commission to arrange for retiring to private life if assurances are given him that reasonable land laws will be enacted.

Railroad communication in all parts of the republic will be resumed within a week.

The government tomorrow will issue a decree declaring that all notes now in circulation are legal tender.

"The scale of the field army which we are calling into being is large, and may rise in the course of the next six or seven months to a total of 30 divisions to be continually maintained in the field.

"But if the war should be protracted, and if its fortunes should be varied or adverse, exertions and sacrifices beyond any which have been demanded will be required from the whole nation and empire. And, where they are required, we are sure they will not be denied to the extreme needs of the state, by parliament or the people."

Word Comes From Front.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—"We have heard this morning from Sir John French, commander of the British forces on the continent," Premier Asquith informed the members of the house of commons this afternoon, "that the withdrawal of his troops to a new position was successfully effected. It was not accomplished without considerable loss. They were hard pressed by the enemy, who, however, were shaken off."

"It is not desirable to say anything more at the moment, except that the field marshal reports that, in spite of hard marching and hard fighting, the British forces are in the best of spirits."

"He estimates the casualties at something over 2,000, but we have not yet received any names."

LIBERIA ASKS U. S. FOR ADVICE ABOUT NEUTRALITY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The republic of Liberia on the west coast of Africa, toward which the United States always has maintained the intimate relation of friendly counselor, has appealed to the American government for advice in enforcing neutrality at its wireless and cable stations.

France protested against the continued use by Germany of a wireless station at Monrovia. Both France and Great Britain have cables to Monrovia. The Liberian minister to Great Britain has formally asked the United States through Ambassador Page to suggest a solution for the difficulty.

It is said that the United States finally settles its own cable-wireless controversy a copy of the decision will be transmitted to the Liberian government for reference.

DISTRICT ATTORNEYS SAY STATE STATUTES LIMIT FORCE AND EFFECT OF COMMON LAW

Public Prosecutors Discuss Advance in Price of Food; Would Dissolve Combinations

Declaring that the "existing statutes of this state have seriously limited the force and effect of the common law," the Colorado District Attorneys association, after an all-day discussion of the recent advance in the prices of foodstuffs, recommended the enactment of an antitrust statute which will enable them to successfully prosecute combinations.

The association also suggested that in those judicial districts in which grand juries may be organized, the district judges give special instructions to the grand jury to make searching inquiry into unreasonable prices and advances in prices for all foodstuffs. The district attorneys each will continue their investigation into the cause of the advance in prices, and should the matter be brought to the point where action can be taken, such action will be uniform.

Prices Should Be Normal

The attorneys issued a statement to the people in which they spoke of the decrease in exports, concluding that the natural result should have been that the prices of food products should have remained normal instead of having increased. They state that it always has been an offense at common law to enter into or conduct any such combination as seems to exist, but that because of state statutes they are unable to do all that they might otherwise have been able to do.

Asks People to Cooperate

The association urged upon the people of the state to cooperate with them in prosecuting conspirators by furnishing them with all knowledge of the existence of combinations.

The entire afternoon session was taken up in a general discussion of the question the statement to the public being the final action. The attorneys were loud in their thanks to President M. W. Purcell for calling the meeting, saying they were anxious to discuss the matter with other attorneys that they might know better how to handle the situation.

Several wholesale and retail merchants appeared before the meeting early in the afternoon to testify relative to the advance in prices.

President Purcell appointed a committee on proposed laws composed of Attorney General F. R. Carr and District Attorneys John A. Rush of Denver and John Davidson of Pueblo. He is ex officio chairman of the committee. As a committee to investigate the existing mining laws with a view of proposing changes, if necessary, and the elimination of obsolete laws, Purcell appointed District Attorneys John Hendricks of Trinidad, George Carlson of Fort Collins and Barney Whaley of Breckenridge.

President Purcell entertained the members of the association at an informal dinner at the Antlers hotel last evening.

United States District Attorney Wilson of Texas attended yesterday afternoon's session.

Association Issues Statement

The association's statement follows: The recent advance in prices of foodstuffs in the state of Colorado warrants

the cooperation of every officer charged with the enforcement of the law in order to fulfill this duty. The United States district attorney for Colorado, the attorney general of the state of Colorado and the several district attorneys have met in conference to devise ways and means for protecting the people of the state against the rapacity of unscrupulous combinations in restraint of trade or advance in prices.

The contention has been made by those who handle the food products of the country that the European war is responsible for the advance in prices. On the other hand, the fact seems to be that the export of food products is less now than for years on account of the insolvency of shippers and the fewer shippers engaged in commerce, by reason of the existing state of war, and also on account of the fact that shippers hesitate to send products abroad because of the uncertainty as to payments being made for transport. The result is that there has been a decrease in exports and the natural result should have been that the prices of food products should have remained normal instead of having increased. This condition in the channels of trade bears heavily upon every household since the increased price has been imposed upon all the necessities of life such as coal, flour, sugar, lumber, meats, dairy products, etc. It has always been an offense at common law to enter into or conduct any such combination or conspiracy.

The state district attorneys and attorney general express their purpose to enforce that rule of law as near as can be done in the face of the existing statutes of this state, which have seriously limited the force and effect of the common law, and recommend the enactment of an antitrust statute which shall enable them successfully to prosecute these combinations while the United States district attorney expresses his purpose to enforce the federal laws to the same end.

We urge upon every citizen of the state who has any knowledge of any agreement or conspiracy in restraint of trade or for the purpose of raising the price of any food products to lay the evidence before the district attorney of his district or before the United States district attorney or the attorney general of Colorado, and we promise the people of the state that there shall be hearty cooperation and united effort in order to protect the people as far as possible against unreasonable prices.

In this connection we respectfully suggest to the district judges in those judicial districts in which grand juries may be organized that special instructions be given the grand jury to make searching inquiry into all such matters, and if it shall develop that federal statutes have been violated then the federal statute should be made to the United States district attorney of this district.

SIDEWALKS ON NEW BRIDGE ON SOUTH NEVADA AVENUE

New Plans Drawn to Provide Passageway for Pedestrians; County Commissioners Ask for Bids

The county commissioners yesterday rejected all bids on the new concrete arch bridge over Fountain creek on South Nevada avenue because of a decision to change the style of the bridge. The original plans called for only one roadway over the bridge, and made no special provision for people crossing on foot. From requests made to the commissioners within the last few days it has developed that sidewalks are necessary, and accordingly the commissioners have ordered that new plans be drawn at once, and will advertise again for bids. The new plans will call for sidewalks six feet wide on each side of the bridge, with a roadway 20 feet wide between them. The commissioners, to prevent any delay in getting the work started, have ruled that the bidders will not be allowed to make suggestions as to changes in the bridge, and that all bids must correspond to the specifications.

The commissioners also considered bids yesterday on the replacing of one arch of the bridge over Kettle creek on the Denver road, and awarded the contract to the Midland Construction company of Kansas City, on its bid of $4,800. Work on this bridge will be begun at once, and the commissioners expect it will be completed in about 60 days.

To Make Additions to Union Printers Home

Final action on the improvements to be made at the Union Printers home this year will be taken the latter part of next month, when the board of trustees of the home, as headed by Louis J. of the home, according to Superintendent John C. Daley who has just returned from Providence, R. I., where he attended the annual convention of the International Typographical union.

An addition to the hospital will be the largest improvement made. Two plans are being considered. Daley says one is to build an addition to the present hospital building at a cost of about $45,000. The other is to tear out the present building and construct a wing to the main building at a cost of about $75,000.

The convention voted to increase the per capita tax for the home from 15 to 20 cents. The matter is subject to a referendum vote. Such a tax would give the home a revenue of $12,000 a month.

SPRINGS FAVORS STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting at the Alta Vista hotel yesterday noon decided to join with the Denver chamber of commerce and other commercial bodies throughout the state in forming a Colorado commercial organization. The local body will send five representatives to a meeting to be held in Denver about September 15 to launch the new organization.

President Thomas B. Stearns, Vice President J. M. Johnson, R. H. Conway and D. C. Giles of the Denver chamber of commerce were present at the meeting and made talks on the proposed organization. Leonard E. Curtis and Franklin E. Brooks of Colorado Springs also spoke. Details of the formation of the new body were not discussed, though it was made plain that the representation of the larger commercial organizations would be made so that they could not control the state organization.

WOMEN WILL WEAR WIDER SKIRTS, SAYS FINKELSTEIN

Splits Will Be Out of Style, Too, Declares Merchant Back From Eastern Buying Trip

Slit skirts have had their day and in place of the narrow designs with a perpendicular rip will come the wider skirt of tomorrow, according to D. J. Finkelstein of the Hub clothing company who has returned from an eastern buying trip. The modern dress and the modern dress is a had combination in the opinion of Finkelstein, and the garb of the future will present no hindrance to the intricate steps of the Maxine and the tango. "The skirts will be wider with a tunic effect and no slit," he said yesterday, "and long jackets will prevail in women's suits."

The manufacturers of the United States are feeling well satisfied with their share of war indemnity. There will be no more expensive trips to the continent to purchase models and styles for the American consumer and the creation of models will take place in this country. No merchandise has been coming from France and the manufacturers will have to depend on home made styles for several months or years as the case may be. It is much more convenient for the manufacturer to make his own models and far less expensive," said Finkelstein.

When asked if men's styles were changing he laughed and said that

M'LOUGHLIN AND DUNDY TAKE DOUBLES TITLE

Californians Beat Mathay and Church in Straight Sets; Cups Become Their Property

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 25.—Maurice Z. McLoughlin of San Francisco and T. C. Dundy of Los Angeles won the lawn tennis doubles championship of the United States for the third time today. Two tall silver vases which have been awaiting permanent claimants since 1910 became the personal property of the Californians after they had disposed of Dean Mathay of Cranford, N. J., and George M. Church of New York, in straight sets. The scores were: 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Most of the generalship fell to Dundy. McLoughlin was unsteady, and as Mathay and Church made Dundy the target of their shots, the little Los Angeles player had his hands full. His lobbing was always timely. His kills were severe and he played half after ball at Mathay's feet.

Mathay and Church had been carefully coached for the match. The match going to 25 games, was over in three-quarters of an hour, there being but six deuce games.

SPIES BUSY IN ALL LANDS

Germany Pays $5,000,000 a Year to Secret Agents

From the New York Press.

Protests have recently been made by Britons against the action of the admiralty in permitting foreigners to compete at the sale of old warships, held periodically in the various dockyards of Britain.

At ordinary times the alien is kept at a good distance from the yards, but when a sale takes place he is practically given a free run of them.

The main endeavor of foreign spies to obtain valuable secrets are devoted to British naval stations and dockyards, and yet the admiralty has always been guilty of a good deal of carelessness in matters which concern the efficiency of the national defenses.

It was only a short time ago when an ex-naval gunner named Parrott was arrested in a tobacco shop in the Kings road, Chelsea, where he had had letters addressed, on a charge of communicating naval secrets to a foreign country.

He was tried before Justice Darling, who sentenced him to four years' penal servitude. At the trial it came to light that Parrott had been the victim of a woman spy, whom he became acquainted with in a place of amusement.

Women spies are said to haunt the neighborhood of naval stations and dockyards like so many flies on a treacle tin, and it was not so very long back when a certain naval officer discovered that a pretty young lady he was on very good terms with was the secret service agent in the employ of a big power.

The girl's inquisitiveness concerning naval matters generally made him a little suspicious, and he thought it wise to inform his superiors.

Quiet inquiries elicited the fact that she had attempted a few days before to bribe a dockyard employee to steal certain plans for her, and that she was possessed of a small camera with which she had taken photographs, wholesale without any one being the wiser.

It has been said, and probably with a good deal of truth, that hidden away in a safe in a government office in Germany are fairly accurate plans of Gibraltar's defense work and that they were made from rough sketches supplied by a German girl who some years ago alighted at Gibraltar for the "benefit of her health."

PRESERVING EGGS FOR WINTER USE

By C. A. WINTER

Eggs preserved in a water-glass solution will keep almost perfectly for several months. They will hatch nearly as well as fresh eggs, although the taste is a trifle more flat after long storage. These are the conclusions of the Missouri College of Agriculture after a careful investigation of various methods of storing eggs for winter use.

Water-glass is purchased in liquid form. Druggists commonly retail it at 25 cents a quart, and one quart is enough to preserve 20 dozens of eggs. For this number at five gallon stoneware or earthenware crock is the most satisfactory receptacle. Heat 10 quarts of water to the boiling point and allow it to cool. Then pour the water into the crock, add one quart of water-glass and mix the two. The solution is then ready for the eggs. Place the eggs in the water-glass solution each day as soon as they are laid. Use only naturally clean, not washed, fresh eggs. When the crock is filled, to within two inches of the top of the solution, cover and store in a cool, dry place until winter.

By this method eggs may be stored during spring and summer, when they are relatively cheap and production is high, for use during winter, when prices are high and production is low. Farmer and housewife alike may save many dollars by this method of cheap storage of eggs. It is of the greatest importance that the eggs used should be absolutely fresh. Water-glass will not make bad eggs good, but will keep good eggs from becoming bad.

CAUSES OF PRESENT WAR

IT IS A WAR OF POLICY WHICH MIGHT HAVE BEEN AVOIDED

From the Chicago Tribune.

Where is the responsibility for this war? Men of intense loyalty may answer to their own satisfaction by disregarding factors which fall outside of their consideration because their loyalty will not permit them to see clearly. The neutral intelligence does not find its way out of confusion.

The force of neutral opinion is ineffective now, but the time will come when it will have power, and it is important now to keep the open mind.

Small Austria-Hungary is held responsible because it was forced to recognize the danger of the Slavic attacks upon its dynasty and its territorial integrity. The belief that the Austrian government is an "autocratic government" and that its autocracy is hurtful would hardly go to the length of denying it the right to protect itself against attack. Would Great Britain have accepted calmly the assassination of the crown prince by a German student, when back of the student was found an organization of German military men, supported by German opinion and German ambitions?

Be via or Austria?

Should Serbia be held responsible? Caught the south Slavs to watch without concern the continued absorption of their kinsmen by a Teutonic-Magyar organization? Could they be expected to remain indifferent as Austria annexed two provinces upon which, while they still were under the restraining Turk, the Serbians had their eyes as upon territories naturally and willingly to come under a Slavic government? Was Serbia to submit to a violation of its possibilities, or was it also to ask for its "place in the sun?"

Was Austria, maintaining a government over isolated peoples, to see without concern the growth of a nation with which her own ill-affected people would sympathize, which would stretch threateningly along her border, and as certainly as like goes to like stir Austrian subjects of other races to rebellion?

Was Austria or Serbia to concede the one that its growth was done, the other that it should not be?

Was Russia to be indifferent to the further expansion of the dual monarchy along the Adriatic and down toward the Aegean sea, closing in and building a German wall about the entrance to the Black sea, which now is stopped by Turkey with the consent of Europe?

Was Germany to see a "Slavic combination" formed to threaten the dismemberment of her only reliable ally in Europe, to leave her isolated utterly if it succeeded, with nothing but enemies on the east, west and south? Could Germany permit Austria to be backed against the wall by Russian armies and suffer the Slavic power to find an entrance westward?

Could France do otherwise?

Could France, to whom German militarism has been a constant threat, observe with indifference the attack of allied German and Austrian armies on her only effective ally on the continent, and risk the chance that the outcome would leave her isolated and open to the next German attack upon her colonial possessions? Remember that it has been only a few years since Germany suddenly questioned the right of the French in Morocco, and as the price of recognizing each protectorate took 250,000 square kilometers of land in northern French Congo.

War was avoided on those terms. What new demand would be made if France were isolated? Is the great and growing German empire to have its colonies, while her neighbors possess the fat places of the earth?

Was Belgium to submit to a violation of territory, accepting the chance that her fields would be battlefields, the property of her citizens destroyed and her lives endangered? What if Germany promised reparation? Suppose Germany were not the victor? Would terms the conquerors made with her include a settlement for the nation which had yielded in her request that way be cleared for a quick attack on France?

Belgium's peace was guaranteed by treaty. She had the word of her neighbors, including that of Germany, that she should be allowed to live in peace, devote herself undisturbed to arts and crafts. To yield to a demand such as Germany made was to cast her lot with Germany. The best she could obtain was a restoration of her status as a neutral. Her other chance was that she would be swept up with the spoils of war, cease to exist as a nation.

If France and Russia had been successful would they have overlooked the act which gave Germany the opportunity for the quick attack on French frontiers?

Was England to blame?

Could England with her fleet, her only protection, threatened by continued German building, see the successful spread of German militarism and feel any security in her island isolation? She feeds on imports. If nations are warlike she must control the sea.

The neutral mind does not readily indict a nation in this war. It is a war of policy, we believe, and one that might have been avoided if the determination had not rested with autocracy. There were grievances and causes. If one admits they were irresistible the conclusion might as well be that the sooner the war came the better. We do not believe they were irresistible. They were serious, but we believe that they were made irresistible by the grandiloquence of monarchy, by the ease with which autocracy commits a people to a course of conduct from which there is no drawing back.

Europe, without kings, might have reconciled these serious disagreements, but it is only a partisan who finds his ability to pick and indict the criminal nation unimpaired by the complexity of facts and the confusion of cause.

Certainly the indictment cannot be specific. It must be general. One may say that such and such condition of military, such and such condition of autocracy, produced events which could come to only one end, but for such definite act there is a defined defense.

U. S. RELIEF BOARD IN CONTROL OF SITUATION

Funds Distributed to American Tourists Caught in the War Zones

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Secretary Garrison, chairman of the government's relief board, reiterated tonight that steamship accommodations for Americans from all parts of Europe were adequate for the present, and that his reports showed improvement in the financial condition of Americans in the war zones.

Assistant Secretary Repenke, of the war department, cabled the following report today from Berlin:

"I left The Hague with a party last Saturday, August 22, for Dutch government furnishing a special train to the frontier. There the German government gave us a special train to Berlin, where we arrived at 8 a. m., Sunday.

The trip was made possible by the courtesy of the German government. I will get in touch with the situation in Austria and Italy from here."

No Aid in Portugal.

The American minister to Portugal, Thomas Birch, cabled from Lisbon that no financial aid is necessary there.

Consul Robert J. Thompson, at Alexandria, Egypt, telegraphed that American and British in East Belgium, Liege, Verviers and Spa are all right.

Consul General Bergholtz, at Dresden, telegraphed that he could say positively Americans and their property are safe in Dresden.

Secretary Garrison today gave out the following summary of the reports received to date concerning the movements and disposition of the officers and relief funds sent to Europe.

Summary of Situation.

"The Tennessee arrived at Palmouth at 2:30 p. m. August 16. Assistant Secretary Breckenridge, with Major Ketchum and Captain Dalton, went on to London, taking 100,000 for use there. In the 18th, the North Carolina left for Cherbourg, with relief funds and with a party of officers. This party took with them some of the officers who previously were stationed at the

ADVANCE OF GERMAN ARMY ON FRANCE NOW CONSIDERED LIKELY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—A conservative advance of all the German armies toward Paris is probable, the Semois river, Longwy and the greater part of the Belgian-French frontier being in German hands, according to a wireless dispatch to the German embassy from its foreign office received today via Bayville, L. I. It says:

"The German troops facing the French troops defeated them in battle from August 17 to 21. Numerous prisoners, more than 150 guns and 10,000 prisoners have been captured. Lunenburg has been taken and the army of General Joffre is broken up and no longer capable of action. The German

THE PROGRESS OF THE WAR

THE fall of Namur, coming so quickly after the capture of the Liege forts, gives the Germans virtual control of Belgium. And thus the war assumes a new aspect. All hope of a brief contest is past, and now the nations involved will settle down to their bloody work with a grim realization that the end can come only with the complete exhaustion of one side or the other.

If the Germans had been decisively beaten in Belgium the contest would undoubtedly have taken a different turn from this time. There would have been a reasonable chance of preventing an invasion of France in force, and of compelling the Kaiser to defend his western border, as he is now defending the eastern line against the Russian attack. With Germany on the defensive an early termination of the struggle might have been possible.

But apparently a German advance toward Paris is the next feature of the program. The Franco-English army must have been badly beaten in the first stages of the big battle, else the admissions from Paris and London would not be so complete. If they are decisively beaten it is hard to see how anything can avert a repetition of the triumphal march to Paris in 1870, followed to a certainty by its eventual capitulation.

But that does not mean an end to the war, for here the parallel ends. Forty-four years ago Germany fought France alone, but now it is surrounded by enemies on every side. And England, at least, is implacable. Secure in its insular position, with its command of the seas virtually assured, it can continue the war indefinitely.

Russia, too, holds a position of peculiar strength. It was just a century ago that Napoleon found that an invasion of Russia is unlike an invasion of any other nation on earth. He crossed the Nieman en route to Moscow with 350,000 men, on his retreat a few months later he crossed the same stream with a bedraggled remnant of 35,000 men. Probably four-fifths of the remainder had succumbed to cold and starvation. True, Napoleon's attempt was made in winter, but if Germany should be successful in France at the present time it could not carry out an invasion of Russia before winter, and to postpone the attempt until next spring would be to give the Russians time to interpose insuperable obstacles.

England realizes now, as never before, that it is in for a finish fight. Your typical Britisher is not easily aroused to a sense of danger. Fifteen years ago he expected to beat the Boers handily, and it was not until they had beaten him on many a hard-fought field that he came to his senses. But he was not frightened, he did not get panicky, he simply pulled himself together and made up his mind that the Boers must be wiped out if it took a million men and a billion pounds sterling to do it. When Lord Kitchener was asked when the war would end he replied, "When the Boers are beaten." Later, when the Boers were defeated but still fighting, his answer to the same question was, "When the Boers know they are beaten." And we may depend on it that Britain's part in this war will not end until the Germans are not only beaten, but retrace the fact.

Yesterday the London Times printed an editorial which expresses this characteristic attitude of the national mind. It well showed the sobering influence on England of the check sustained by the allies. There is a perfectly honest admission of the seriousness of the situation, but Whatever be the upshot Great Britain and her allies will face the outlook with dogged determination and continue the war until the spirit of Prussian militarism is rooted out of Europe. The Germans are not to be allowed to remain in the neck of nothing but the French and English have everything to gain by waging a delaying war. While the issue remains uncertain we may still maintain the strongest hope. Should it go against us we may remember that the allies have not like Germany stayed all on their first venture. Our ultimate success is certain, and we will never breathe our sword until Germany has been finally beaten to her knees.

Add a British military critic adds this significant warning.

England and Russia must stubbornly resist that notion that may be France they will never surrender to Germany, but will stick to her as they stuck to Napoleon—until they pull her down. As long as we hold the men we cannot ourselves be vitally struck.

Indeed, there is nothing surprising in the developments of the last few days. To the Germans, time is everything. They must crush the allied armies as quickly as possible in order to end the war in that sphere and get back to the eastern border to repel the Russian advance. Every day of delay adds to the menace of the Muscovite horde now pouring into East Prussia. This explains why the Germans have deliberately sacrificed countless thousands of lives in taking the Belgian forts by storm—they could not afford the time required for a siege. To strike a crushing blow at the allies, and above all to strike quickly, offers the only hope of success.

Adhering to this program, it is not unlikely that they will overrun Flanders. But to win a decisive victory there, and then dispose of the Russians—that is another story. The end of the war is a long way off, and its appalling record of misery and suffering has scarcely begun.

BONDS OR BOMBS

AMERICAN banking houses have declined to float loans to combatants in Europe, not only because the Government frowned upon such a move but because it looks like poor business. War's financial toll is stupendous and many of the nations involved had contracted great debts in preparing for the struggle. England, of all the belligerents, possibly is able to withstand the drain of the war. But many of the other nations face a prospect similar to that of Turkey or China bound by liabilities that they cannot meet.

Keeping American money for investments of peace, rather than sending it abroad for those of war, looms up brightly on the financial horizon. A loan to a foreign power is an investment in destruction, while buying stocks in American commercial enterprise is an investment in production. The foreign battlers may not be able to make good when the mortgage is due.

Buy bonds instead of bombs with American dollars!

The battle is not always to the strong. Generally it is to the censor.

Athletically speaking, these Europeans are becoming adept at putting the shot.

RETRIBUTION

To the Editor of The Gazette:
 The Master said of one man: "It were good for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he were cast into the depths of the sea."
 I think of that when I think of the retribution awaiting the man who has taken advantage of an innocent girl's love and trust to ruin her life. He may think he can escape the penalty of his sin, he may desert her in her bitter need, and leave her to bear alone the shame and disgrace that follows her, but "The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceeding small." A curse will hang over him the shadow of his sin will dog his footsteps, and sooner or later—in this world often, or the next most surely—vengeance will come.

One of the most wonderful passages of Shakespeare is where the Duke of Clarence relates his dream to his sister the morning of the day in which he was to be murdered. He dreamed that his soul left the body and went to the place of departed spirits. There he met those he had injured on earth. At last there came by a shadow, like an angel with bright hair dabbled in blood, and he shrieked aloud: "Clarence is come—false, fleeing, perjured Clarence, that stabbed me on the field at Tewkesbury. Seize on him, furies!"
 I believe it is rare that the man escapes a bitter penalty of his misdoings here, but to pass into the next life with memory intact with consciousness acute undulled, to go from the hazy and hush of this life into the awful verities of the next, there to find the consequences of his misdeeds here, to meet the lost souls he has helped to ruin and to spend eternity with them—one needs no literal hell fire to picture his torment.

I pity for my heart the girl who has gone wrong, but for the man who has been the cause of her going wrong another word of the Master is fit: "God were it for that man if he had never been born."

ROOSEVELT ON THE MONROE DOCTRINE

From the Chicago Herald
 All thinking Americans will join Mr. Roosevelt in giving thanks for the Monroe doctrine and for the American statesmanship that perceived its necessity, and has so firmly maintained its principle, the American for Americans. Mr. Roosevelt told the exact truth about the benefits of this American policy when he said:
 "Africa is now being drawn into the fight although without any interest in it. We would have been drawn in the same way if it had not been for the observance of the great principle which the Monroe doctrine contains. The peace of the western hemisphere largely depends on the preservation of this doctrine.

It does, and all Americans should be devoutly thankful for the far-seeing statesmanship which, in the face of ridicule, of sneers, of actual sneers, and of temptations to sacrifice the larger aim to some immediate advantage, has kept the new world free from Europe's imperial ambitions, racial distinctions and dynastic hates.

Geography of the War Zone

Geographic Society Issues War Geography Primer

The National Geographic society is issuing in installments a primer of European war geography. The locations and descriptions of some of the places frequently mentioned in the war news have already been printed. Others follow:

ARION—A small city in the extreme southeast corner of Belgium, with a population of upwards of 10,000. It is the chief town of Belgian Luxembourg, and is only 10 miles north of the French town of Longwy. It dates back to the time of the Romans and some of the ancient walls continued to the time of Louis XIV. Its situation is on a hill 1,200 feet above sea level, and being an important strategic position, it has a history of several centuries. The French, notably in 1647 and 1841. Twenty miles to the northwest is the town of Neufchateau, said to be the resting point of the left flank of the army invading Belgium.

OTIGNIES—A town in central Belgium about two miles up the Dyle river from Wavre which is nine miles east of Waterloo. It is famous for its flower and vegetable gardens, which supply many nearby important cities. It was near here that the French general, Grouchy, fought the action of Wavre. Napoleon was at Waterloo. His generals had urged him to move his troops in the direction of the firing at Waterloo, but he continued on the east bank of the Dyle, where he encountered a Prussian force of 18,000 men, which prevented his passage until too late to help his chief at Waterloo. When he heard the news of Waterloo he retreated to France via Namur, slipping past Blucher.

LIERRE—A Belgian town of about 25,000 population situated on the river Nethe, about nine miles southeast of Antwerp and eight miles northeast of Melle. Its principal industry is the manufacture of alkali. The little Nethe river flows into the Nethe here and a fort guards the south bank of the latter covering also the railroad coming from Aerschot, 15 miles to the southeast.

HERENTHALS—A town of 10,000 inhabitants in northern Belgium, at the crossing of railroads leading from Antwerp to Ghent, Turnhout to Aerschot and Liège to Maeseyck. Textiles in important quantities are made here.

BOULLON—A small town in southern Belgium 10 miles northeast of the French town of Sedan. It is situated in the beautiful valley of the Meuse, and is overlooked by the famous castle of Godfrey of Bouillon. The fifth Godfrey of Bouillon was the great crusader and the conqueror of Jerusalem. He sold his castle to finance the crusade. Napoleon III after his capture at Sedan, spent the night here as a prisoner.

SEDAN—A town of nearly 20,000 population in northern France, where the French and the Prussians met in 1870 and where the French were forced into an unconditional surrender, including their king, an army of 82,000, 554 guns and an immense amount of stores. The Germans took 8,000 and the French 17,000. Marshal MacMahon captured his retreating army there on August 31 but made no attempt to communicate with Vinoy's corps at Metz, nor to break through the gap between the German third and Meuse armies. The Germans surrounded the city, and early next morning the fighting began. MacMahon was wounded, and the command fell upon General Ducrot. He decided to move the whole army to the west in the direction of Metz. At this juncture after the orders went out, General Wimpffen who had arrived from Metz on the night of the 30th took command and ordered the army to move in the opposite direction. The confusion that resulted ended with the hoisting of the white flag in the village church steeple and the surrender of the French.

The Good Time Atmosphere

BY RUTH CAMERON

The desire of mankind for happiness is the most deeply implanted of human instincts. It always irritates me when I hear some crabbed old person say in criticism of a young girl: "She is too fond of a good time."

Why shouldn't she be fond of a good time, Miss Crustiness? If she weren't, she wouldn't be a normal young person. There is something wrong about people when they stop liking a good time. They have crushed a normal instinct and it makes them abnormal.

To like a good time and to try to have one is selfish in itself. It is only when you make that the sole object of your life and trample heedlessly on other people's feelings to attain it that it becomes selfish.

Besides, people who have a good time make other people have a good time. They are a joy to have about. They carry the good times atmosphere with them.

Is Margaret going on the picnic? We ask. That is splendid, we will surely have a good time. We know that Margaret is one of those whole-hearted, energetic, jolly folks who are always looking for a good time, who find it in the simplest things and who incidentally help others to find it.

I have given up trying to have a good time, I heard a woman say the other day. "There's too much work to be done in the world."

It sounded very fine and self-sacrificing, but is it the best attitude?

Stevenson says: "Our greatest duty to our neighbor is to make him a little happier if we can, and I don't think this woman fulfills that duty. She has stopped having a good time, she never has the good times atmosphere about her. Quite to the contrary. As a result, her children and husband feel this lack in their home, although I doubt if they could define it, and they are happier out of the house than in it. She is doing her duty towards them in a material sense and absolutely failing them in the way Stevenson defines our duty."

You may remember the little prayer of which I told you: "Help me to be happy and to make others so." To my mind that is an all embracing petition, and I am sure that nobody could fulfill those conditions, who has ceased to care whether he has a good time or not.

Don't stop wanting to be happy. It isn't good for you or anyone about you. Learn to be less selfish and indifferent to others in your search for happiness, but keep on wanting it. It is healthy and normal to feel that way.

One thing more, did you ever thank one of those people who have the gift of happiness and who bless the world by sharing it? I did the other day and found him unconscious of his service, and deeply touched by my acknowledgment. Now and then I do, and so he never realized what it meant to be without it, and how much his presence bestowed. The entrance of some people into a room is as if another candle were lighted, but since they bring the brightness with them they do not realize the change they have made. You must know some of these people, and not tell them that!

HARVEST HANDS

The harvest hand is a man whose duty it is to pile up prosperity with a pitchfork.

He can generally be distinguished by his deep scarlet neck. Most of the world's sunshine is concentrated in the harvest field and after a harvest hand has toiled for two weeks with nothing between him and the sun but a half-acre straw hat he looks like a lobster who has just had a hot bath.

The harvest hand follows the binder and plows the bundles of wheat and oats into neat little piles. Later on he pitches these piles onto a wagon. Almost anybody can stick a fork into a couple of wheat bundles and hoist them high aloft. But the second pair of bundles weigh more than the first and the one hundredth pair weigh twice as much. By afternoon the green young harvest hand is pitching haystacks instead of bundles and by night he is pitching pyramids.

"The second pair of bundles weigh more than the first."

About all the work in the wheat field comes at harvest time. This makes the harvest hand a scarce and valuable institution. He gets from $2.50 to $4 a day in Kansas with board and a bed in the hay loft thrown in. Thousands of placid gentlemen who lead lives of leisure far from the reach of a bath tub stroll out into Kansas during the harvest to work a little at these stacks. But very few of them get rich at it. After a man has reaped doggedly for 20 years he is not much account in a wheat field where "rest" is the rarest and most unrequited word in the dictionary.

Many a college boy takes off his dinky hat and pretty flat pin in the summer and goes out to Kansas where he tackles a wheat-pitching job and sticks to it until he looks like the wreck of a scare-crow. We can forgive a college boy anything he does in winter for the feast he performs in summer when the rest of the world is hunting a cool spot near the lemonade bucket.

Straus Says Czar Must Treat Jews Better in Future

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Dr. R. K. Morton of Philadelphia, who arrived in London from Lausanne today said:

"Alarm is spreading in Boulogne. The idea now prevails that the Germans will try to capture that port as part of a general plan to shut off communication between France and England. The people of Boulogne fear the foggy, cloudy season when they expect activity by the Germans along the English channel."

A prominent Massachusetts woman, who reached Lausanne by way of The Hague said that when she left Munich on Tuesday the city was much depressed on account of rumors that the Munich troops had suffered heavily a few days before at Muehlhausen. It was reported that nearly half of the families of Munich had relatives among those killed or wounded, but the facts were kept from strangers. One countess is said to have lost three sons in the Muehlhausen engagement.

Cesar S. Straus, former American ambassador to Turkey, and member of the permanent court of arbitration, said today:

Russia Must Change System.
 Sympathy with the allies in the war would be greatly increased were it not for the feeling that Russia does not grant all her citizens equal rights in time of peace. In war Russia is willing that men of all faiths shall fight. All her citizens want to fight. But in a spirit of fairness, Russia should put all her citizens on an equal footing both in time of war and in time of peace.

The allies would do well to have Russia assure Roman Catholics, Jews, Dutchcoopers, men of all faiths who are waging her battles that they shall have equal rights with Russian church members when the struggle ends.

They offer their lives together in behalf of the government, they should stand on an equal footing after the war.

"Russia's assurance that it will treat all equally would strengthen the allies, it would convince neutral nations that Russia will no longer discriminate against any of its citizens and I hope that Great Britain and France will strengthen diplomatically that Russia strengthen the triple entente by such action."

HUNGER SOON WILL BRING EUROPEAN PEACE BUTLER

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Hunger will bring peace in Europe, in the opinion of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, who arrived today on the Principe di Udine, after the war had interfered with his plans to visit the German emperor in response to a personal invitation.

"I don't believe the war will last long," Dr. Butler said here. "I believe the cessation of hostilities will come from a shortage of food rather than from decisive victories on the battlefield. If war continues a few weeks longer victor and vanquished will find a common lot awaiting them in the foreboding shadow of famine."

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 26, 1884. AUGUST 26, 1894.

The Liller school building was formally accepted from the contractors by the building committee of the school board.

A number of representative Republicans met at the court house and appointed committees to arrange for the state convention which was to be held here on September 10.

Hon. Henry M. Teller, who was then secretary of the interior, was visiting in the city.

The fact that the train from Salt Lake on the D. & R. G. arrived on time was deemed worthy of note by The Gazette.

The Ute Indians who had been at the casino for several days and who had taken part in the flower parade, left for their home in the southwestern part of the state. They said that they had had a very fine time and hoped to come again.

A gang of burglars raided a number of homes on Cascade avenue but secured nothing but a few silver spoons.

Great indignation was caused here by a story printed in the Denver News to the effect that a plot was being hatched to far and feather W. S. Stratton, the well-known mine owner.

Geography of the War Zone

Geographic Society Issues War Geography Primer

The National Geographic society is issuing in installments a primer of European war geography. The locations and descriptions of some of the places frequently mentioned in the war news have already been printed. Others follow:

BRUSSELS (The capital of Belgium, situated near the center of the country, on the Senne river. With its suburbs, it has a population of 700,000. Its commerce is not important, but its manufacture of lace, bronze, carriage and leather goods is a large scale. Its name signifies "it is originally was" a dwelling in a marsh and it was mentioned as a small village in the chronicle of the eighth century.

The city suffered severely when bombarded by the French in 1830 who fired the two with red hot shot burning 16 churches and 4,000 houses. It is not a fortified place, like Namur and Liege, each of these being surrounded by forts, while Brussels has none. The city is 26 miles south of Antwerp, eight miles west of north of Waterloo and 35 miles northwest of Namur.

BRUSSELS TO ANTWERP - The route from Brussels to Antwerp is an interesting one and for a part of the distance follows the valley of the Senne. At Vilvorde six miles out, is the military penitentiary and it was here that William Tyndale suffered martyrdom. North of Malines the road is guarded by two forts and still further north it passes through the chain of forts that stretches eastward from Hoboken and protects the southern entrance to Antwerp.

LIGNY - The little village 14 miles west of Namur and 15 miles south-west of Waterloo where therelude to the battle of Waterloo was fought. Napoleon expected to annihilate Blucher here but a misunderstanding of orders kept the First corps well-lagging between Quatre Bras and Ligny.

CHICAGO MARKET
"CHICAGO, Aug. 25 - Wheat again rose to the bulge call for and registered a gain of 3/4 to 3/8 on the theory that Europe would have to pay the price. The price constituted a new high level for the crop. Corn advanced 1/4 to 1/2 and oats 1/4 to 1/2. While prices advanced, the market was higher, except September pork, which was neglected and dropped 1/2. The local wheat pit took its first cut, after opening without material change from the northwestern markets, which began to jump on buying of millers assumed on sales of flour and because of rains which were said to be delaying threshing.

The bulge met profit taking without materially affecting the price. The bulls were further bolstered by reports that the French government had bought some 150,000 bushels of wheat at the seaboard. Rumors of Italian mobilization directed attention to an estimate that Italy would need to import 400,000 bushels. Country offerings pushed up a bit, but the movement in general seemed to be decreasing. The market and fifth attention to an English report that Turkey wheat through the Danubian.

The wheat bulge, the weekly report of the weather bureau on crop conditions and confirmation by railroads of damage in Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Illinois a count for the advance in corn which showed firm. Corn offerings again were small.

The commission house, undisturbed by an apparent cessation of the export demand brought about the advance in oats.

Scattered longer liquidated September contracts in the futures pit with October and this were for selling. The market was slow. Little strength that the dull market day. It was due to shorts covering in sympathy with the neighboring bulge as it opened High Close.
